

Dear Customer

Porthole IV Power and USB charging module

October 2016

Porthole IV has been designed to support a range of UK and international sockets and comes complete with integral 4A USB power supply.

The module is supplied with a 1m cable and can be connected in seconds through a 80mm cable hole to our Elite+ under desk module using a Wieland 3 pole GST connector - before securing the unit to the desk surface using a simple hand fixing nut.

The 2 port USB power supply, which is capable of charging all leading mobile phones and tablets, is designed to share the power when two devices are connected but can deliver a maximum 4A to a single USB socket when only one device is connected.

Porthole IV is available in black, grey or white as standard with a matching outer lip that has been designed to deflect spillages. The module also presents a number of additional options for contrasting face and outer rim - but why stop there!

With plastic mouldings available in every conceivable colour why not customise Porthole IV to match your office interior or corporate colour scheme. (subject to minimum order quantities and lead times).

And with electrical safety at the heart of everything we do, Porthole IV is tested fully tested to comply with BS5733 - General requirements for electrical accessories.
